A COLLEGE FOR WOMEN.

The Model Institution of Bryn Mawr

The buildings for the new female college

Bryn Mawr are nearly completed, and they will be ready for the reception of pupils the 15th of September, 1885. The college was founded by Dr. Joseph W. Taylor of Burling-top, N.J., who purchased the present site and commenced the erection of the present build-ings. Upon his death in 1880 he left the con-trol of the institution and of the fonds be-questhed for its establishment and support in the hands of thirteen trustees.

"The purpose of the institution, as expressed by its founder," said Dr. James C. Rhoder, its president, yesterday, "ie to offer to women all the advantages of a college education, and to fit such of them as desire it to be teachers of the higher branches. The idea is to give in the preparatory schools all the fraining and drill necessary to educate the pupil to the point where she may be competent to pass the matriculation examination.

Unlike Vassar, there will be no preparatory school attached to the Bryn Mawe Coilege.

"The course of studies," continued Dr. Rhodes, "is to be similar to that pursued at the Johns Hopkins University, the studies being classified into 'groups and made to a great extent elective. The faculities have been chosen with the end in view of having in each department the best specialist to be obtained in each particular branch. All the chairs are filled, with the exception of one of languages. Particular attention will be paid to the physical training of the pupils, and the gymnasium, which is the largest one for women in the country, will be furnished and conducted on the plan carried out by Professor George Sargent at Harvard. If will be under the charge of Miss Caralyn C. Ladd, who has been instructed by Professor Bargeat.

The principal building at present standing is Taylor Hall, named atter the founder, which contains, in very convenient form, laboratories, ilbraries, reclusion rooms, lecture rooms, offices for the president and his staff and a large assembly room. Built of Port Deposit atone, 150 feet long and three stories high, this structure offers amply accommodations for the purposes for which it is intended. The first story is laid upon brick arches and is fireproof.

Merion Hall, which is to be used as the home of the students are admirable. Three communicating rooms will be given to every two. The centre room will be cused for study, and those on either side as bed chambers. The devices for ventilation in the institution are perfect and calculated to give every hygienic advantage. In addition to Merion flail there will be cottages exceeded on the grounds capable of giving quarters to twenty more residents of the college require them. The gymnasium is thoroughly appointed, and is to be furnished with the same perfect apparatus atjecesent to be seen in the rooms of the New York Athletic Chila. There is a complete system of water supply, a boiler-house build on the premises, containing a pump that will furnish a sum clent supply to all the buildings. The boiler house also heats the gymnasium and herfor Hall. The buildings will cost when complete $200,000. Beside this sum Dr. Taylor endows the building with $800,000 for its mainten nance,—Philadelphia Press.

RAPID PROGRESS.

Contractor Gleason with his usual energy and push is making the debris of the rains of the National Theatre rapidly disappear. All of the partially burnt lumber has been removed; also, the brick portion and appurtenances belonging to the front. The stove store, formerly occupied by Mr. Rapley, has been almost completely demolished, the front reduced to the ground floor and the back hullding partially removed. Before to-day passes this building will be out of the way. The large west and north walls of the theatre proper still stand; also that portion formerly used for dressing and property rooms. It is the intention to carry off all the builds and rubbish belonging to the other walls are disturbed.

With the progress now being made it is evident that within a fortnight the contractor will bave the site almost completely cleaned off and ready for a start to be made for new walls. The design of the new theatre has not yet been concluded upon, but it is the intention of Mr. Rapley to include every convenience that can be suggested, and at the same time have it as safe as it can possibly be made. All of the partially burnt lumber has been

AN ADVISER FOR BAYARD.

Francis Wharton Selected to Beat with Questions of International Law.

Secretary of State Bayard has appointed Francis Wharton, L.L. D., of Philadelphia, as his legal adviser on all questions involving international law. Mr. Wharton said last night that he had accepted the position and that he would start this morning for and that he would start this morning for Washington.

Francis Wharton is a descendant of an old Fennsylvania family, one of his ancestors being Governor Wharton, the first Revolutionary governor of Pennsylvania. He is the nephew of Wm. Rawle, the first United States district attorney. He is a graduate of Yale, and was elected, at the age of 22, during the administration of Governor Shunk, Assistant State Attorney. In that position he was first associated with Judge Kelley, with whom he has ever since held strong and affectionate relations.

A DECISION OF IMPORTANCE.

A Witness Not Obliged to Testify. In the matter of Richard M. Wolfe, cited to show cause why he should not be pun-ished for contempt for failure to auswer a question propounded to him before U.

shed for contemps to rather to suswer a question propounded to him before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Bundy in the case of Bondinot against Phillips, Jostice Cox. in the Circuit Court this morning, cut the argument short by overruling the motion, discharging the rule and directing the other side to pay costs. The Judgo said that the Commissioner had no jurisdiction in this case, because the application made to take the testimony did not present the case contemplated by the statute.

It was doubtful whether the testimony could be taken until the cause was at issue, for the Court could not until then tell what would be competent testimony. In any event a witness could not be called upon to answer a question which was not relevant and pertinent to the case, and he had the right to object for irrelevancy. The Court would not in any case undertake to coerce a witness to suswer a question before a commissioner which the Court itself would not compel him to answer if present on the trial.

It is incumbent upon the plaintiff to make out a clear case, establish the jurisdiction of the commissioner, as well as the materiality and relevance of the question propounded. The power to commit for contempt should be very carofully exercised. It was a restraint of the liberty of the citizen, and a clear case for its exercise must first be established, which was not done in this instance.

DADY AND THE CONTRACT.

McCann Denies That He Had a Partner to Whom Any Money Was Promised.

Jesse S. Carwan of Washington appeared yesterday as a witness in the suit of Michael J. Dady against Contractor Mc-Cann, in the Brooklyn City Court. He Michael J. Dady against Contractor McCann, in the Brooklyn City Court. He said that McCann had informed him at Washington that Dady had pressed him to join him, rather against his intentions. He did not recollect that McCann had said, "Dady is a — fool and I told him so." Here the plaintiff's counsel rested the case. Mr. Brower moved for a non-suit on the ground that the other side had only shown a breach of agreement, whereas the action was for enforcing a partnership, Judge Clement denied the motion and Mr. Morris called Mr. McCann to the stand.

He said that Silas B. Dutcher first called his attention to the advertisement for bids for the Washington sawer. The witness had already received specifications of the work when Dady saked him if he proposed to go into it. Dady called upon Mr. Hazzard and the latter said the witness could have a certified check for $100,000 as security. He informed Dady that to raise the money he would jeopardize his real estate, and therefore he must give up the scheme, so far as Dady was concerned. Dady replied that he intended to visit Washington. If he secured the contract he was willing to receive any remuneration the witness might choose to give him. McCann denied the interviews to which Dady had previously testified, in which he was alleged to have admitted the partnership. The witness made the bid in his own name.

A QUESTION OF FACT.

Commissioner Evans Does Not Re-sign.

The fact that the nomination of Joseph S. Miller to succeed Walter Evans, signed," as Commissioner of Internal Revenue was withdrawn from the Senate and made to read, vice Evans, "to be removed," attracts attention to the question of whether Mr. Evans had resigned, and if so, under

Mr. Evans had resigned, and if so, under what circumstances.

A CRITIC reporter called on Commissioner Evans and unquired as to the facts. He replied that he never expected nor desired to remain in his present position, and contemplated resigning at the proper time. But he did not think the time had arrived and had not resigned nor had he been requested to resign when the nomination of his successor was sent to the Senate.

He was surprised to see the nomination, "vice Evans, resigned," and was still more surprised yesterday to receive a letter accepting his resignation. The Commissioner did not quite understand how a resignation could be accepted before it was tendered. Commissioner Evans says that he has heard nothing and done nothing in reference to resigning, and does not see how he could resign now, after what has occurred. Even those who were perfectly willing to see Mr. Evans displaced regard the manuer in which the matter has been handled as very irregular.

Commissioner Milier's Nomination.

In executive session yesterday afternoon some discussion was had of the nomination of Mr. Miller to be Commissioner of internal Revenue. Mr. Evans had not tendered his resignation and objection was made to his removal. It transpired that Mr. Evans had verbally announced to Sacretary Manning that he would resign at any time desired, and the latter considered that expression as sufficient in itself to make a vacaucy, and without asking for the resignation the appointment was made. Republican Scoators said there was no intention to antagonize the Administration in this regard, and expressed the opinion that the position of Commissioner of Internal Revenue was one that ought to be filled by a man of the Commissioner Miller's Nomination, that ought to be filled by a man of the President's choice, but they thought in-justice had been done Mr. Evans in not giving him the opportunity to resign. The nomination was referred to the Committee on Finance.

The President's First Official Reception
President Cleveland's first official recoption last evening was brilliantly successful. The White House was charmingly decorated with flowers and delightfully illuminated for the distinguished people who assembled. The details of the reception did not vary materially from those that have been given at the Executive Mansion during the past four years, although there was a great change in the faces present. At 9 c'clock the Marine Band produced "Hail to the Chief" as the President with Miss Bayard on his arm entered the Bine Parlor. They were preceded by Colonel Rockwell and Lieutenant Mason followed by Secretary Bayard with Miss Cleveland. The Cabinet officers followed with their wives. About 10 o'clock ex-President Arthur called with Mrs. John Davis and was very cordially received.

THE BOOMERS DETERMINED. A " Dead Line " Established in Okla-

ARKANSAS CITY, KAN., March 18 .- If the result of the next Cabinet meeting at Washington on the Oklanoma question is unfavor able to the colonists it is more than prob able that Captain Couch will make an attempt to march his men into the Territory. Major Benton has located a "dead line," beyond which General Hatch has decreed no Boomer must go, and if Couch does move, the instant his men get beyond that line trouble will begin. Whether the troops will fire on the settlers remains to be seen.

General Hatch says they will and the Boomera believe they will not. General Hatch's plan to arrest the entire colony will be attempted first, and then circumstances must dictate what will follow. The colonists must dictate what will follow. The colonists are very mad about the articles sent out from Washington to the effect that they have distanced, and General Hatch says be sent no such dispatch to General Sacridan, as is alleged. He did telegraph General Sheridan that since President Cleveland's proclamation several colonies at other points had voted not to come to Arkansas City, but would wait developments at their homes.

A Story of Terrible Suffering. MANCHESTER, N. J., March 18.-A few nights ago William Hendrickson and Cook

MANCHESTER, N. J., March 18.—A few nights ago William Hendrickson and Cook Brown, owners of coal pits near Crossville, returned from a neighboring village about midnight intoxicated, and after eating suppor started for the pits. Mrs. Brown, fearing for her husband's safety, accompanied him. After inspecting the pits Brown started home, leaving his wife and Hendrickson to follow. The night was very cold. Brown reached home snd fell into a drunken sleep. After daylight Hendrickson came in and awoke him. Brown asked, "Where is Lizzie?" Hendrickson replied: "Froze to death F suppose and I'm d—n near it." Both men then went to sleep. About 11 o'clock in the morning Brown started out for the coal pits, hardly remembering the occurrences of the night.

About thirty yards from the pit he feund the dead and frozen body of his wife. The leaves and ground in the vicinity showed evidences of a struggle. Chumps of hair, buttons torn from her dress, bent pits and her sacque were scattered about. The village is in a ferment over these developments made at the coroner's inquest. The woman's face was scratched and bruised as if by a hand pressed over her mouth. The condition of the lungs and brain the lungs and brain the lungs and brain of the lungs and brain the condition of the lungs and brain. The weiman's face was scratched and bruised as if by a hand pressed over her mouth. The condition of the lungs and brain showed that death had been caused by suffocation. The jury, after considering these facts, found that "Lizzle Brown came to her death by suffocation and freezing, cansed by the willful action and neglect of Cook Brown and William Hendrickson." The men were arrested and attended the woman's funeral under guard, after which they were taken to jail. They may yet he lynched by the excited people.

The Enterprise of a Rascal.

MILWALKEE, Wis., March 18.—James Blackburn arrived here from Canada several years ago. He soon ingratiated himself with business men and was employed by the Milwaukee, Lake Shore & Western Esliroad as paymaster. In 1880 the company built a saw mill at Norrie and Blackburn was put in charge. Two years later statements were demanded, but they were unsatisfactory. The mill was finally shut down, and an examination of the books showed a deficiency of $20,000. Blackburn had been in the habit of shipping lumber to Chicago and selling it on his own account. He was arrested yesterday and refunded $13,000, after which he left for Northern Michigan. The Enterprise of a Rascal.

Sheppard, his trainer, stated that the final arrangements for his fight between Sullivan and McCaffrey would probably be completed to-night. Sullivan, he said, would remain in this city for two weeks and train for the fight. Clark has engaged Renz's Park, and here Sullivan will train under Sheppard. If he disobeys any of his trainer's orders, Sheppard will give him up.
